More residents want to emigrate

NOTTINGHAM has been named as one of the top cities for emigration in a study by a migration specialist.

The city came eighth out of more than 120 places across the UK for the number of inquiries received by The Emigration Group in 2010.

Paul Arthur, director of the firm, said: "In Nottingham we have seen many people with trade, mining or manufacturing backgrounds looking to head Down Under."

The Emigration Group is holding a seminar on February 20, at the Hilton National hotel at East Midlands Airport.

There will be two seminars.

The first, at 10am, is for people looking to move to Australia and the second, at 2pm, is for people wanting to emigrate to New Zealand.
